2015 LED-R READINESS ACROSS REGIONS

Claudia Stickler | Scientist & Senior Program Manager

Low-emission rural development (LED-R) is a new model of sustainable development that emphasizes climate change mitigation and adaptation. Many jurisdictions still lack performance targets and reference levels for LED-R. This map provides an overview of LED-R readiness by taking a look at deforestation rates, average annual emissions, and drivers of deforestation across eight tropical forest countries.